

4 YEAR TERM CAUSES MUCH DISCUSSION

There appears to be either a misunderstanding of the new four year term for officers or else the various counties of the state of Ill. have different election laws. The following article by Thomas A. Matthews and A. D. McLarty regarding the four year term appeared in a recent issue of the Illinois Municipal Review:

"The Illinois Municipal League conducted an active campaign in 1935 to secure a four year term for all elected city and village officials. As a result, the Legislature enacted a series of laws at that session, providing for a four year term for all elective city and village officials. Such officials will be elected for a four year term in 1937, unless, in the meantime, the voters of any municipality have voted to retain the two year term.

The increase from two to four years was made by several enactments which are found in the following places in the Illinois Session Laws of 1935: House Bill Number 239, page 512; No. 240, page 548; No. 241, page 536; No. 242, page 269 and No. 243, page 288.

The term of the mayor was set at four years by House Bill 239 (Smith-Hurd statutes, ch. 24, par. 15), which provides that:

"The chief executive officer of a city shall be a mayor, who shall be a citizen of the United States, a qualified elector, and reside within the city limits. He shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor is elected and qualified, except in cities which have adopted a two year term as provided in Article XI-A-1 of this Act."

Aldermen also will serve for four years, excepting that one-half of those elected in 1937, selected by lot, will serve only a two year term. Par. 34 of Ch. 24, Smith-Hurd, provides that:

"Aldermen elected at the first election after the effective date of this Amendment Act, or at the first election after a city is organized, shall draw lots to determine which one of the aldermen in each ward elected at such election shall hold for a four year term and until his successor is elected and qualified and which one in each ward shall hold for a two year term and until his successor is elected and qualified. Aldermen elected thereafter shall hold for a four year term, and until their successors are elected and qualified, except in cities which adopt a two year term as provided."

Those cities which operate under the minority plan of council representation are covered by a similar provision. (Smith-Hurd ch. 24, pars. 57 and 822.)

Although the term of the clerk and treasurers in cities is not specifically fixed at four years, par. 52 provides that:

"A clerk and a city treasurer shall be elected in each city when a mayor is elected; Provided, that no person shall be elected to the office of city treasurer for two terms in succession."

This indicates clearly that the term of the clerk and of the treasurer (in cities) is to be the same as that of the Mayor.

The Village President, in every village has the same four year term as the mayor in cities. (Smith-Hurd ch. 24, par. 165.)

Attorney F. A. Harper of Tinley advises the two year terms for the offices in question applies. Mayor Wm. Kollman of Orland Park says the new 4 year term will be used by Orland Park and the same holds good in Mokena.

The bride was gowned in a light green print dress, floor length. Her bridesmaids, Miss Sylvia Voigt, wore light blue print, floor length gown and Miss Linda Twietmeyer, wore a floor length gown of light peach print.

The groom was attended by Wilbert Wille and Henry Schmeckpeper.

A wedding dinner was served at seven o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, to the close relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Twietmeyer left Monday for a wedding trip to Wisconsin.

White Store Makes 94th Stock Purchase

The White Store, Will County's famous department store is now selling its 84th stock purchase at a real bargain. Thru its well known buying power, The White Store was enabled to secure a $35,000 Chicago store stock at a price which has enabled the popular White Store to offer a first class stock to its patrons at money saving prices which have been readily taken advantage of by hundreds of buyers from the rural sections of Will County as well as the southern part of Cook County.

The White Store has steady customers in both counties and whenever The White Store announces bargains the customers know just what to expect in the line of quality merchandise and big savings.

The big sale of the 94th stock purchase is still on and thrifty shoppers should not fail to take advantage of this big sale.

M. C. Railroad Must Install Flashers In 30 Days at Frankfort

An Illinois Commerce Commission ruling that the Michigan Central railroad must install signals and bell at the White street crossing in the village of Frankfort, was sustained Monday morning by Judge Edwin L. Wilson, Judge of the Circuit Court of Will county.

The ruling by the Commission was made nearly ten months ago and the railroad company has been stalling this along until now.

Judge Wilson allowed the attorneys for the railroad, Mel Gray and Mr. Flotte, thirty days in which to appeal to the Supreme Court or make the installation.

Railroad attorneys, claimed it would cost $3,500 to install signals and pleaded for the village to share the expense.

Then village attorney Albert H. Krusemark, pointed out that the railroad owned and rented these buildings of the Grain Company, which make the crossing hazardous, and therefore the Village should be excused of paying part of the signal's expense.

Charles Bobzin Village trustee and George Sangmeister, President of the Village Board, represented the Village.

Mr. Geo. C. Sangmeister, mayor of Frankfort, says, after a long fought battle, he is very happy over the above named verdict and he believes the Railroad Company will not carry this case any further, but will install the much needed signals.

Representatives of the Commerce Commission who were present at the hearing, were Warren Henry, assistant engineer and Attorney Cohen.

Receives Interesting Letter From The Flood Region

Mrs. Herman Schweser of Mokena has received a number of interesting letters from her niece Mrs. Richard Denbo of Evansville, Ind., telling of the recent flood condition there.

Mrs. Deno wrote in a letter dated Jan. 27th that all party telephone lines had been disconnected but that their phone had been allowed to remain connected as they were a sub station for the Red Cross.

They had 14 refugees in a community hall, eleven of whom were colored folks. They were removed to a neighboring town of Salem where they could be properly segregated. Due to a shortage of drinking water as many people as possible were evacuated out of Evansville. All water had to be boiled for 20 minutes. Milk had to be pasteurized or boiled. Up to that time plenty of supplies were on hand.

A bridge leading from Evansville to the Stringtown road was carefully examined and only one automobile at a time was allowed to cross.

Mrs. Denbo further stated in her letter that she had cots in the living room of her home and that one nurse and her husband and two young ladies were staying there. She reported a plentiful supply of serum in the city.

In a later letter Mrs. Denbo wrote her home being on high ground was out of danger. She told of the Community hall being filled with refugees and cots in every room in the house and the kitchen. The people who stayed in her house brought their own bedding along. The last bridge was open on the Stringtown road but it was expected to be closed almost any time and boats would have to be resorted to.

The weather conditions had been warm and the snow was almost gone. There had been lots of snow and ice.

Mrs. Denbo wrote further that they always had a nurse or two in her home and at one time had several nurses from Chicago staying there. Six people with Chickenpox had been segregated and one man with active tuberculosis had been taken to the county infirmary hospital.

Mrs. Denbo is the wife of a Methodist minister and is the daughter of Mrs. Christina Abrahamson of Macksville, Kansas. The latter is a sister of Mrs. Herman Schweser of Mokena and is well known in Frankfort.

It was decided that the Wabash Railway officials and the village officials meet at the village hall in Orland Park, Monday February 15 at 2 p. m. and an adjourned meeting of the hearing be held March 10 at 10 a. m. in the Commission's office in Chicago.

New Lenox Bull Shipped to Jamaica

A New Lenox bull, New Deal No. 56012, is being shipped to the island of Jamaica in the West Indies by its owner, Joseph Kestle, well-known New Lenox Township stock man, who has bred registered cattle for more than 36 years.

The bull will become part of the experimental herd of the University of Jamaica, at Kingston. The animal was bought by mail after his achievements had been read in the catalogue of the Red Polled Record Association, with whom he had been registered.

New Deal No. 56012 is four years old, weighs about 1900 pounds and in 1934 won first prize in the yearling exhibition class at the International Exhibition, in Chicago, and at all the Western state fairs at which he was exhibited.

His dam, Mr. Kestle said, has a record of producing 9,821 pounds of milk with 431 pounds of butter fat. University requirements were for more than 8,000 pounds of milk and 300 pounds of butter fat. The bull is still too young for his calves to have been proved for milk and fat production.

The bull was shipped Wednesday to New York by rail and will leave Saturday morning for his journey through the Caribbean. Mr. Kestle said he had not asked a high price for the bull, $500, but had been content to have him serve in the interest of science.

Tinley TYO Meets Manhattan Sat. Nite

After two untimely defeats last Saturday night, the TYO teams will swing into action tomorrow night against formidable foes. The scene will be the Tinley School Gym, the program of which will include the weekly business men's awards.

Starting at 8:00 p. m., the Tinley girls will meet Hazelcrest, a team with a long winning streak which the TYOs promise to break. The Hazelcrest girls boast several Harvey athletes in their lineup and are seeking revenge for a pre-season defeat handed them by Tinley.

After the drawing the TYO boys will meet Manhattan, a team composed of former high school players. Last year's tournament, you will recall, saw Tinley edging out a two point victory over these boys for third place honors. Manhattan with more experience promises to avenge this defeat as the teams meet for the first time this year.

Despite the failure of either home team to emerge victorious the games presented last Saturday night were hip and tuck battles until the final gun sounded. The Harvey girls managed to stave off a last minute attack to win the rubber game of the current season by the narrow margin of three points, 26-23. After leading most of the way the TYO boys succumbed to Orland's determined attack, losing 31-28.

Don't forget these two games to

Tinley Men Mistaken For Colored Gents

One evening this past week, two worthy citizens of our thriving community, gaily wended their way to the masquerade ball at Blue Island and were really out to make a night of it.

With the darling wives safely tucked away and lulled to sleep with a husband's fairy tales, these two rejoiced in their ill-gotten freedom. Dolled-up in black grease paint and proper attire to represent a down-trodden black man of Harlem, our friends sped merrily along down the highway thru Robbins.

Without warning, a shrill siren and gruff command, forced them to pull up at the curb.

"Where you all goin' black boys?" bellowed a big black-faced limb of the law.

"I's sure nuff gwine to stick you chocolate drops in the calaboose", "Aw come now captain!" snorted No. one in a southern drawl. "We all is respected white men from Tinley Park. Give us a break."

"I sure ought to charge you with impersonation besides," replied the officer.

How these two gentlemen sprung themselves from such a really embarrassing situation, we leave to the imagination of our dear readers.

The moral is: Do not stray far from home with the wife tucked away in slumber.

To Elect Officers

The Tinley Park Business Men's Association is now six years old. An election of officers will be held at the regular meeting of the association next Monday night.

Letters To
The Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

Well, it looks like we got a couple citizens with some good common horse sense who are trying to do something for this town. So, Mr.
Editor, please let me add some things to this discussion.

In the first place, we don't want to waste too much space in this paper on a long argument, whether we are hicks, seedy or uncouth. There are hicks everywhere, also in Mokena. I don't think that 'A Citizen' wanted to say that the people in Mokena were no good, but simply wanted to point out that outsiders criticize us for not doing anything for our young people. And that is true.

So far we have two suggestions for what we could do—a bowling alley and a public playground. I think that both ideas are worth thinking about. The more ideas we get, the more we can choose from and the less thinking the city fathers will have to do. You know, too much thinking makes head-aches, and we don't want the city fathers to buy up all the head-aches tablets. Dick, the druggist, has in stock. Dick gets a head-ache too, you know, and wants a few pills for himself. That settles the head-ache question.

Now my idea would be to build a Community hall of some kind in which there would be club rooms, a stage for movies and other entertainment, perhaps even a swimming pool, a bowling alley, pool rooms, library etc., whatever the people would like. If money can be gotten from the government for counting leaves on the trees, maybe we can get some for a real project. Don't think I have too big ideas. Maybe they will work, maybe not, but you know that it is worth some thought.
The important thing to remember is that you can't get anything for nothing. If we are trying to do that, then we might as well give up right now.

UNCLE DUDLEY.

Will County
Farmers Approve
Farm Program

The 1937 agricultural program is being received more favorably by Will county farmers than farm programs of previous years, according to Farm Adviser Leonard W. Braham.

"New provisions have made the program much more flexible," is the comment heard on every hand as the new program was explained to farmers of the county in community meetings," Mr. Braham said.

Greater flexibility has prevented some of the simplicity desired by many farmers, Mr. Braham said.
However, the new program follows closely as possible the general outline recommended by farmers last fall. This is especially true of the provision for meeting the situation brought about by the killing of clover and other legumes by the 1936 drouth.

This provision encourages the production of an acreage of emergency forage and feed in an amount equal to the normal acreage that old soil-conserving crops are lacking, with very little loss in payments.

Altho the details of the 1937 program may seem a bit more complicated, farmers present at community meetings feel that it will now be easier for Will county producers to build a constructive cropping system which fits into the provisions of a new program.

An example of changes better suited to Will County conditions is the provision that payments for applications of limestone will be on a basis of $1.25 a ton rather than on an acreage basis as was the case in 1936.

VISITORS WILL PASS TO THE NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK, (Special).—Forty thousand persons an hour —visitors from every state and every nation—must be accommodated in comfort at but one of the entryways to the New York World's Fair of 1939, according to arrangements the Fair Corporation is completing to handle a maximum daily attendance of 800,000. The artist's drawing, as reproduced above, calls for a magnificent double-decked entryway with underpasses, overpasses, pedestrian walks, bus terminals, comfort stations and bridge connections assuring comfort while providing an area of architectural splendor.

Shown is a ramp leading from the exposition grounds toward the I.R.T.-B.M.T. subway terminal, at a point where it is necessary to cross over the Long Island railroad tracks and to avoid undue congestion of pedestrian traffic. Shown in the left foreground is a domed restaurant within a fountain basin and a concourse bordered by grown plane-trees, and, nearer, an open-air cafe and an information kiosk.
Along the flanking walls the artist has delineated the Fair's world concept which looks to the building of a peaceful, happier World of Tomorrow.

"Spirit" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 7.

The Golden Text was, "We all,
with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord" (II Cor. 3:18).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God" (I Cor. 2:12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God."

Spirit is the only substance, the invisible and indivisible infinite God"
(P. 334-385).

National Boat Show

Chicago's 8th annual National Boat and Sports Show will be bigger and better—also earlier in the season—this year. The famous annual event on mile-long Navy Pier is scheduled for February 28 to March 7, inclusive, according to announcement just made by Hubbard H. Erickson of River Forest, perennial manager of the big exposition.

So a touch of summer-time will be given community and suburban sports lovers and out-of-door devotees when springtime is still "just around the corner."

There will be a greater number of exhibitors in the show this year than ever before—at least 150—according to Mr. Erickson, and the colorful and competitive sports events will be numerous.

All the Chicago newspapers have sponsored special sports events.

Suburban residents always enter these competitions in great numbers and are always among the prize winners. Harvey seems to produce skilled horseshoe pitchers, Berwyn stars casters and Blue Island crack pistol shots.

The Buda Company of Harvey will be among the exhibitors.

The show will have a number of special days during the week. The first day, Sunday February 28, will be known as "Illinois Day." The department of conservation of the State of Illinois and Governor Henry Horner are cooperating to show an unusually attractive exhibit with live wild turkeys, pheasants, quail, prairie chicken, partridge and other native fowl on display.

A feature of the Illinois Day celebration, to be attended by leading state officials, will be the serving of crowd sandwiches. The state department of conservation carries on an annual war against crows to aid farmers and has discovered that crow meat is a very attractive food. Come and taste it!

Later in the week there will be Wisconsin Day, Minnesota Day, Yachtsmen's Day, Aviation Day and other special days.

Never before have there been so many boat exhibitors as will be seen at the show this year. More than a score of builders will display their latest sleek models. Sail boats, cruisers, speed boats cabin cruisers, dinghies and row boats will all be on display for sea-loving folks.

Special entertainment for all, including a variety that will attract and please children, will be given afternoons and evenings.

Barr Horse Sale
Nets Over $18,000

Forty head of pure-bred Suffolk horses passed under the auctioneer's hammer last Monday afternoon for $18,692.50.

The occasion was the sale of the Cherry Hill farm of Senator Richard J. Barr, the largest dispersion sale of the breed ever held.

Horse breeders and farmers from all parts of the country came to bid, because they were tanners of good horseflesh, and because they were anxious to improve their herds.

Experts at the sale hailed the event as of extreme importance in the improvement of draught horses throughout the country.

Here in Will County it was said, Senator Barr has devoted a good deal of care to development of the finest herd of Suffolk horses ever produced. From them come many champions.

Now through this sale to purchasers in all parts of the United States, the strain will be carried on, both in maintaining the purebred line and in adding definite improved qualities to all farm horse stock.

Few of the horses were sold to nearby buyers. Among them were Bert Anderson of Joliet, Marshall Jones of Wilton and Walter Smith of Elgin.

One of the principal buyers was L. B. Wescott of Clinton, N. J., to whom Senator Barr had previously sold many horses at private sale.

Mr. Barr stated that Mr. Wescott, with his wife, daughter of Sen. Pat Harrison, deserted a penthouse in New York, to establish a model farm in western New Jersey. They have made purchases in purebred lines of livestock and horses, and are on their way to making a model farm.

The couple, Mr. Barr pointed out are given to "putting on overalls and getting out in the fields."

Most of the horses, however, were sold to "dirt" farmers, who bought one head, and will go back to their part of the country and allow the horse to work the desirable qualities of its strain into all the stock in the area.

Many purchases were made by Iowa farmers and a number to Illinois breeders.

Senator Barr stated that the auction brought good prices and that he was well pleased with the results of the sale.

The auction marks the first step in his retirement from active farming interests. February 11th another auction was held at the Barr farm on the Black road at which time the farm implements and personal property on farm, the tract behind the Guardian Angels home, and the farm in New Lenox were sold.

The Senator will continue his interest in farming by co-operation with tenants on the farms.

Chief auctioneer was Col. Fred Reppert of Decatur, Ind., who kept the crowds in good spirited interest. Assisting him were: C. B. Drake and A. E. Craig of Joliet, George W. Ingraham of Wilton Center and George B. Jensen of Elwood.

THE 25-MILLIONTHF O R D*HAS JUST BEEN BUILT

It HAS never occurred before in automobile history that 25 million cars of one make, bearing one name, have been manufactured under one management. The 25,000,000th Ford car rolled off the Ford Rouge Plant production line on January 18, 1937.

25 million cars since 1903... more than one-third of all the cars ever built... enough cars to transport the entire population of the United States.

The figures represent a remarkable contribution to the social welfare, the industrial stability and the general progress of our country.

People respect Ford efficiency. They know Ford uses fine materials, the best workmanship at good wages, the most exact precision measurements. They know these things are passed along to purchasers in the form of extra value. Naturally, they like to do business with such a company.

That is the only reason it has been required to produce 25 million cars.

Naturally, too, they expect more of a Ford car, more this year than last year—more each year than the year before. They have every right to. The experience gained in building 25,000,000 cars enables Ford to produce today a really superb motor car at a really low price—with the Beauty, Comfort, Safety and Performance of much more expensive cars.

The 1937 Ford V-8 combines advanced design, all-steel construction, extra body room, and brilliant brakes with a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines—the most modern type of power-plant on land, sea, or in the air.

The 85-horsepower engine provides top performance with unusually good economy for its high power.

The 60-horsepower engine gives good performance with the greatest gasoline mileage ever built into a Ford car—and wears the lowest Ford price tag in years.

People expect more of a Ford car because it's a Ford—and they get more, for the same reason. It is undeniably the quality car in the low-price field.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY*STATES HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO SHOW WARES IN HUGE BUILDING AT NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK, (Special).—Included in the limited edition book of unusual size and beauty which the New York World's Fair 1939 Incorporated has sent to state governors and, through diplomatic channels, to foreign governments, is the following text devoted to...

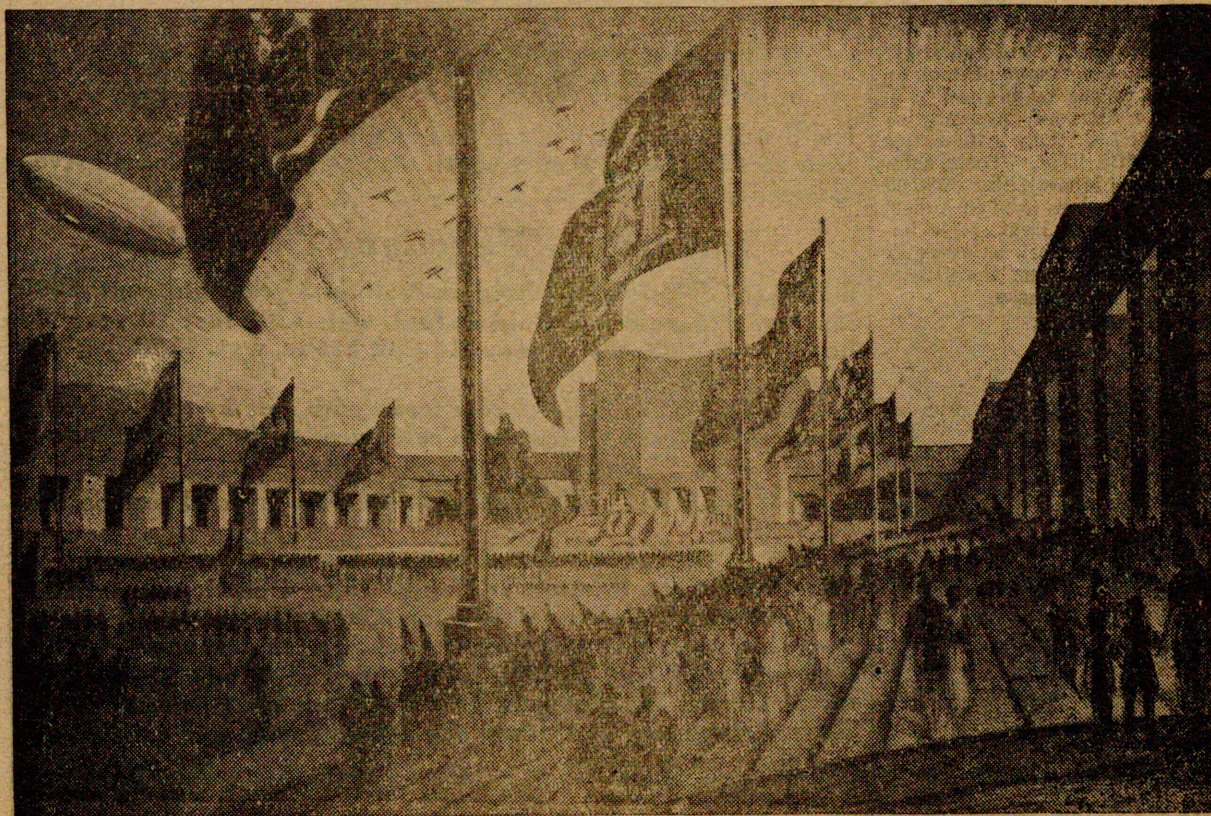

The Sovereign States of the Federal Union

George Washington, in declaring that the public felicity and prosperity of America depend upon the firm union and the unceasing cooperation of the sovereign American States, divined the future. The prosperity and the greatness of these United States have arisen from the free and unimpeded circulation of ideas and products in the world's greatest consumer market.

The Fair gives to each State the appropriate setting and opportunity to announce to the world its unique and indispensable contribution to America's rich and colorful civilization. The Fair contemplates a Hall of States, in the imposing Government group and flanking the structure which the Fair looks to the United States to build, to house the exhibits of the forty-eight States, and the Territories. Those wishing to participate more extensively will, in addition to their exhibits in the Hall of States, either erect their own buildings or obtain space to display their products and attractions in one or more of the exhibit zones.

The State of New York has naturally taken the leadership in the participation of the sovereign States of the Federal Union. Its total appropriations for Fair purposes may exceed $5,600,000; and the New York State World's Fair Commission, appointed by the Governor, has been active for some time. Other States already are beginning to express enthusiastic interest in participating more extensively than at previous world's fairs.

The many visitors will find a fresh cause for pride and enthusiasm in the revealing exhibits of their respective States. But beyond this, the exhibits will enable the States to make a persuasive presentation to all visitors of what they have to offer to the consumer and the tourist.

Before the Hall of States, at the New York Fair, a Brigade Might Pass in Review

News From Springfield

By Bernice T. Van der Vries
Representative, General Assembly
7th Senatorial District.

The stage is about set for the General Assembly to work on the legislative program for the 60th regular session. The wooden scaffolding has been removed from the house chamber, disclosing a new and beautiful ceiling. No longer will pigeons fly over us by day nor bats by night. Huge chunks of falling plaster will not have to be held up by meshed wire stretched across to protect the heads of representatives. Air conditioning will make the long sessions in June more endurable. The Speaker, following the custom established by his predecessors, has promised a shortened session. Even sophomores like myself are becoming doubters.

Members have drawn their permanent desks, an event the importance of which is perhaps not appreciated by the laity. However, since the committees in the House have not been announced and all bills except a few of greatest emergency are referred to committees, active work is delayed. Also, a majority floor leader in the House is still to be announced. The Senate committees were named the opening week in January. House committees, apparently considered more important, are said to be awaiting the Governor's approval.

On Tuesday the first bills were introduced in both branches of the assembly. Contrary to the two of three hundred expected in the House, only 67 made their appearance. On Wednesday about 20 more were introduced. The honor for House Bill No. 1, went to Representative Shannan. It was the well known biennial women-on-juries measure. Closely following were Representative O'Grady's drivers' license and financial responsibility for motorists bills.

In the Senate the bill introduced by Senator Smith, which would create a non-partisan state board of education, drew No. 1. This is a measure which has aroused considerable interest in the 7th district among women's clubs, parent-teacher associations, school boards and individuals interested in education. It will later be discussed in detail in this column.

The representatives from the 7th district introduced the following bills:

House Bills No. 18 and 19, Foster-McGrath. Amend law relative to town levy for poor relief and the withholding of government relief from units that have failed to levy taxes for such relief. (These bills are designed to afford Proviso township another opportunity to levy taxes for poor relief and thereby to receive state aid.)

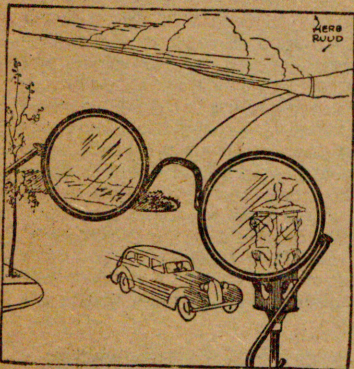

House Bill No. 61, Van der Vries. Includes storm water drains as part of city sewerage systems. (This bill was introduced at the request of the Village of Kenilworth, which desires federal funds for the construction of storm sewers.)

Senate Bill No. 10, Baumrucker. Validates certain municipal bond funding.

Weekly sessions will be the program from now on. Judging from the numbers of representatives of organized groups, such as industry, labor, education, welfare, etc., on the scene committee hearings will be lively and interesting.

The main object of this column is to inform the citizens of the 7th Senatorial district concerning legislation of interest to the district, and leave to the metropolitan press, the news stories about state-wide measures.

Traffic Hints

Looking through "rose-colored" glasses you get a pleasant outlook on life, but some of the "non-glare" sun glasses being sold these days may be the cause of your getting a ticket for running a traffic light. Tests show that many of the lenses filter out red and yellow, two colors used in almost every traffic control light. It is important that these colors be recognized by every driver. Test the glasses before making a purchase.

NEW SAFETY FOR BABIES

Mother, most hospitals now protect their babies against germs and skin-infection by rubbing Mennen Antiseptic Oil all over the baby's body—every day. This keeps the baby's skin smoother, softer, lovelier and SAFER. So, mother, do as hospitals do, as doctors recommend. Give your baby a safety-rub with Mennen Antiseptic Oil daily throughout his diaper-days. See your druggist.

ELEVENTH ILLINOIS DISTRICT HONORED

The legal ability and legislative experience of Congressman Chauncey W. Reed was recognized last week when the party leaders who handle affairs for the Republicans placed him on the Judiciary Committee, one of the most important committees in the House of Representatives. This timely recognition accorded the genial Illinoisian and the Eleventh Congressional District places Representative Reed in line for a very important chairmanship, when and if the G. O. P. comes back into power.

Illinois Republican as he was conferring with Leader Snell regarding matters which will come before the Judiciary Committee. From the picture it is evident that, while Representative Reed may conform to party requirements, he has a mind of his own and intends to express it.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, the Minority Leader stated that he was greatly pleased over the elevation of Congressman Reed and that he felt confident that the representative from Illinois' Eleventh District would bring honor to the party, the district and the nation.

Interpreting the Washington News—

You are vitally interested today in what is happening at the national capital. A new act of Congress or an order issued by one of the multitude of government departments may have a far-reaching effect that is not apparent in the routine news reports.

It is an interpretation of these government activities that is needed to enable you to know just what it is all about and how it all may affect you. It is such an interpretation of the capital news that this paper is providing for you in William Bruckart's WASHINGTON DIGEST which is being published each week. You will find it full of just the kind of information you want.

Lutheran Hour

"America needs a nation-wide youth movement," Dr. Walter A. Maier declared Sunday in his broadcast on the coast-to-coast Lutheran Hour network. "But this youth movement, unlike the nationalistic organizations of Europe, must be a spiritual awakening. Our young people must be mobilized for God and not for Godlessness; for Christ and not against Christ; for the study of the Bible and not for indifference to the Bible."

Speaking on "Christ's Youth Program," Dr. Maier deplored some of the changes that have taken place in American church life. "Denominations which 50 years ago stood fast and firm are now wavering and shaking. They are collapsing because they feature a mixed high-bred religion which is asking to harmonize God's word with man's, which crushes divine revelation into oblivion. We shake our heads in the revival of paganism abroad. But in our own country, false altars are being reared throughout the land."

"With many American churches less than one-third filled, and many preachers dabbling in side issues instead of concentrating their efforts on bringing Christ to sin-sick souls; many church members more active in trying to win prizes at bridge and bunco parties than testifying to the eternal Grace of their Savior; and church societies staging vaudeville shows; breaking the clear laws of the land by raffish and games of chance, the call of the hour is for young people who will build better spiritual foundations for tomorrow."

Around The Town

M. M. wants to know where H. S. goes when he goes out.

How do you account for that ailing bovine look in your eyes G. O? Is it because W. H. is beating your time with B. Mc

The moans and groans emanating from Diamond's home last Thursday nite were not made by any ghosts or evil spirits, but just too many perspiring canines.

Why the tears in your eyes last Thursday nite E. Mc? Was it love or onions?

We hear that Mrs. M. makes delicious coffee and it not only has a kick but also a sock in it. We wonder if "Pa" missed any of his socks?

L. R. has been going around town in a daze the past three weeks since her boy friend R. C. left for Arkansas.

Diamond Lil claims she went to bed Saturday nite but—we wonder. E. M. claims kissing games at parties are the bunk.

A reader wants to ask O. B. how he felt Sunday morning—the morning after the nite before.

We hear T. R. is mooning around for a certain someone in the West.

H. S. just loves to get his name in the papers.

We hear E. M. was around borrowing Monday afternoon. Personals, at that. How come?

Heard the latest? E. P. and M. L. really and truly have it bad now.

What on earth were R. M. and I. M. doing about 1:00 a. m. Sunday morning?

Here is another General Science report submitted by Marie Heiting:

METROPOLITAN WATER WORKS OF BOSTON, MASS.

Boston, Mass., is a very important city; it's especially noted for its large water supply. Boston receives its water supply from lakes.

Boston has many aqueducts and reservoirs. The first spadeful of dirt was dug up, for the first water supply of Boston, by Mayor Quincy. The second spadeful was dug by the sixth president of the United States, President John Quincy Adams. This was the beginning of Boston, Mass., great water supply. The aqueduct was built of brick, which had cross-sections of 76 in. high and 60 in. wide. This extended entirely from the lake to a distance of 14 miles away. This aqueduct was built in 1846 and is still in use. Today it furnishes 19 million gals of water a day, for the Metropolitan Water Works. This water is furnished by the Charles River in Wellesby, Mass.

In 1875, Boston built another large aqueduct. It was 16 miles in length. This aqueduct is 7 feet, 8 inches high and 9 feet wide, with a capacity of 100 million gallons of water a day. The water is supplied by the Subway River. When this aqueduct was completed it increased Boston's water supply a great many gallons.

After the completion of another large aqueduct, which supplied Boston with 360 million gallons of water, a large reservoir was built, which held 129 feet of water whose capacity was 65,000,000 gallons of water a day. This was a great help to Boston. When this reservoir is full, it floods an area of 4,134 acres. Before this reservoir was built the water which flowed down the river, was to purify the sewage of the town of Clinton, Mass.

There are seven high service reservoirs in Boston, which has a combined capacity of 2.4 billion gallons.

In 1917, a hydro-electric plant was installed in Clinton, for the purpose of generating electric energy, but this was the first instance where water drawn for water supply purpose, was used for generating electric energy for industrial purposes.

The Metropolitan Water District now includes an area of 174 square miles and a population of 1,503,230, its capacity of water for a day was 50 billions gallons of water.

It has cost Mass. a great deal of money to build her large aqueducts and reservoirs. (About $48,000,000.) To build the Wachusett Coldbrook Tunnel was another experience project. This tunnel carries very much water to Mass. It is about 13 1/4 miles in length and is 656 feet deep.

Another one of Mass. large reservoirs was the Wachusett reservoir, the total capacity being 22.4 billions gallons. The reservoir is 65 billion gallons and the available capacity of 55 billions gallons. In a series of dry years, the total capacity is 27 millions gallons a day.

The Metropolitan District is planning to increase their water supply. It is going to cost them $65,900,000 of which $20,000,000 has been spent already. This shows that Mass. needs a great quantity of water for their water supply.

"Equal Justice Under Law"

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

In his authoritative studies of American government, James Bryce, noted statesman and historian, refers to the United States Supreme Court as "the living voice of the Constitution."

During recent weeks various members of Congress have urged that that voice be muffled.

They propose that the power of the Supreme Court—the Judicial branch in our balanced system of government—be weakened, and much of its authority to interpret and safeguard the Constitution be transferred to Congress—the Legislative branch.

Is the proposal a wise one? Apparently not. Some of our ablest Senators and Representatives oppose it on the floor of Congress itself. They believe that if the Supreme Court is weakened, our Constitution and Bill of Rights will be weakened with it.

Nor are they alone in this conviction. It has been shared in the past, as in the present, by eminent leaders and students of the American system of government. Here are a few of their comments on the importance of the Judicial branch in our Constitutional system:

"Considering the judicial system as the chief pillar upon which our national government must rest, I have thought it my duty to nominate for the high offices in that department such men as I conceived would give dignity and lustre to our national character."—George Washington.

"The maintenance of the judicial power is essential and indispensable to the very being of this government. The Constitution without it, would be no Constitution—the Government, no Government. . . . The judicial power is the protecting power of the Government."—Daniel Webster.

"So long as the Supreme Court maintains its lofty teachings, so long as its maxims of interpretation and the principles which underlie its work are understood and cherished by the loyal people of the land, so long will a pledge exist that the liberties of America will prove immortal."—History of the Supreme Court—Carson.

"The people must defend their Constitution. . . . They must jealously watch to see that no branch usurps the power of another, for, as Washington said, the concentration of power in one branch creates, 'whatever the form of government, a real despotism.'"—Theodore Roosevelt.

Through a century and a half of our history the people, as well as their leaders, have had faith in the Supreme Court and its American motto: Equal Justice Under Law. That faith should be hard to destroy.

ILLINOIS
BREVITIES

John A. Nelson, prominent retired farmer of Paxton, died. He was eighty years old.

Mrs. Christina Sackers, forty, died in Alton of burns suffered when her clothing caught fire.

Asroe Owen, thirty-three, of Harrisburg, was killed at the Sahara mine when he was crushed between two coal cars.

The Illinois department of agriculture has leased a 1,742-acre tract in Otter Creek township, Jersey county, for a state game preserve.

Harry F. Hubbard, eighty, member of one of Sterling's earliest bands, later a minstrel trouper and concert player, is dead. He was in the lumber business for many years.

Edward Ernst of Decatur was sentenced to sixty days in the Montgomery jail at Hillsboro by United States District Judge J. Earl Major on charges of violating the internal revenue laws.

Live stock rustling, at a minimum in McLean county for several months, appeared again when 25 head of swine, valued at approximately $375, were stolen from the Matt Wick farm near Lexington.

J. N. Wallace, Herrin's first photographer and formerly of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat staff, died of pneumonia. He was a former state officer in the Knights of Pythias and a thirty-second degree Mason. He was sixty-three years old.

S. L. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Progressive Miners of America, has sent out to local unions in Illinois notices of the Progressives' third scale convention, to be held in Gillespie during the week beginning February 15.

Roy Partain, Rosiclare fluorspar miner, was found dead in his truck, stalled in flood waters, a victim of asphyxiation. He was thirty years old and had spent the day rescuing Rosiclare families and their household goods from flooded areas.

Illinois farmers were warned by W. P. Flint, chief entomologist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois and Illinois Natural History survey, to beware of "city slickers" seeking to sell them an "extract" of hybrid corn with which to combat chinch bugs and grasshoppers. Although offered at prices as high as $12.50 a bottle, the material appears to be worthless, Flint said.

Their exit barred by smoke, seven women employees were lowered to safety by a rope made of sheets tied together, when fire started in the Elgin State hospital. Inmates, excited by the smoke which drifted through corridors, were kept under guard until the flames were extinguished. The fire was confined to the basement of a three-story brick building, housing one of the main dining rooms.

Disapproval has been voiced by University of Illinois officials over action of the interfraternity council in discarding all but two restrictions on so-called hell week initiation activities. The two restrictions retained are those compelling freshman class attendance and a rule which limits informal "ceremonies" to 72 hours. David Larabee, assistant to the dean of men, said the action was "the most backward step in three years."

Citizen sponsorship of Illinois paroled convicts has been abolished by T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of parole supervision. Full responsibility will be placed upon the parole agents. In order that they may have time for the work, ten new parole agents will be added to the 19 now in the district that includes Chicago. Superintendent Sullivan said. This, he explained, will reduce the average case load for each agent from 158 to 75 parolees.

Mrs. Ellen E. Wilson of Bloomington, who traced her lineage to John Alden and Priscilla Mullins of Pilgrim days and had the distinction of having five ancestors who were officers in the Revolutionary war, is dead from the debilities of old age. She came to McLean county with her parents in 1857 and taught school. In 1860 she married Judson Wilson and moved to Springfield where she often saw Abraham Lincoln. She was ninety-eight years old.

Monmouth college will open next fall a new boys' dormitory available only to superior students who are partly dependent upon themselves for support, President James Harper Grier announced. The new project is a gift of Dr. David A. Murray, professor of Bible and religion at Monmouth since 1925 and well-known author of religious books and articles. The building will be known as Vandundy hall in honor of J. L. Vandundy, professor of Latin at Monmouth for many years, who died last spring.

Merschel B. Attkin, twenty-five, of Lexington, was burned to death when his automobile crashed into the rear of a parked truck on U. S. highway 66, a mile north of Chenoa, and burst into flames.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes authorized additional purchases of books and periodicals from the $600,000 library relief fund as follows: Christopher, $174; Aurora, $425; Libertyville, $117; Freeport, $94; Danville, $268; Quincy, $737; Farmington, $131; Mount Carmel, $138; Pontiac, $174; Belleville, $270; and Morrison, $188.

Lesson for February 14

JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD

LESSON TEXT—John 10:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep. John 10:11.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Good Shepherd.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Good Shepherd.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Is Like a Shepherd.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Our Good Shepherd.

The blind man who had been healed had been cast out of the synagogue because he had given the glory for his healing to Jesus Christ, (see ch. 9). The door to that which stood for all that was sacred to him had been closed. Whither should he turn? Look! here comes someone seeking him. It is Jesus, who now declares that the door which men had closed was no true door at all, for he says, "I am the door of the sheep." Those who professed to be shepherding the flocks and who had cast this poor man out were but hirelings. Now he speaks to the One who says, "I am the good Shepherd."

Someone has suggested that the parable of the good shepherd presents the whole day in the life of the shepherd and his flock, morning, noon, and night, and typifies the ministry of Christ on our behalf in the varying circumstances of life.

I. In the Morning (John 10:1-6). Flocks were sometimes kept in the field at night, as was the case on the night when Jesus was born in Bethlehem. But ordinarily they were brought into a sheepfold where many flocks gathered for protection. Thieves would climb the wall to steal sheep, but the shepherd, when he came in the morning to lead forth his flock, entered in by the door. He called out his flock by name and they knew his voice. It is said that only a sick sheep will follow a stranger, which may explain why so many false isms of our day appeal to the sick and lead them away from the Good Shepherd.

Do you know his voice? Have you responded to his call? Will you follow him? Decide now.

II. In the Heat of the Day (vv. 7-10).

Perhaps the sheep need to enter the fold to rest, if so he is the door. But they may wish to go out to the pasture—again he is the door. Belonging to Christ is not bondage. If any man enter in by Christ, the Door, he is free to go in and out, to find pasture, to live for and to serve him.

"The Door." What a striking figure! It is a means of entry, the only way in. Every door has two sides and the side we are on determines whether we are inside or outside—saved or lost. Children used to sing, and still do:

One Door and only one,
And yet its sides are two—
Inside and outside,
On which side are you?

III. When Night Comes (vv. 11-16).

The wolves come out as the shadows gather. They come to kill and to scatter. Where is the shepherd? If he is only a hireling, serving for what may "be in it" for him, he will flee. How perfectly this picture religious leaders who, in spite of their swelling words and ingratiating manners, desert the flock in the hour of adversity. Fair weather friends are they, who disappear when darkness and danger appear.

In the darkest hour Jesus is nearest at hand. He never fails. He has no fear, for he has not tasted the bitter death of Calvary's tree for you and for me? He is the good shepherd. He giveth his life for the sheep. Those who have put their trust in him shall never be put to shame.

Because he has given his life for the sheep we must not forget nor neglect the truth found in verse 16. There are "other sheep" that have not yet been brought into the fold. They must be brought in, and we, on His behalf, must bring them, that there may "be one fold and one shepherd."

Penitence and Mercy

Man must not disclaim his brotherhood, even with the guiltiest, since though his hand be clean his heart has surely been polluted by the fitting phantoms of iniquity. He must feel that when he shall knock at the gate of Heaven no semblance of an unspotted life can entitle him to an entrance there. Penitence must kneel and Mercy come from the footstool of the Throne, or that golden gate will never open.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

The Power of Prayer

The greatest thing anyone can do for God and for man is to pray. When one understands about prayer, and puts prayer in its right place, one finds that it is the doing that grows out of praying that is mightiest in touching human hearts.—S. D. Gordon.

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—I have said in these columns many times that politics is a business. If anybody desires proof of that statement I think I am able now to offer the best possible evidence of the truth of that statement. Lately, W. Forbes Morgan, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, has demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt what politics as a business actually means. He did so in the recent announcement that the Democratic national committee would seek to build up a "war chest" of $10,000,000 that the vast New Deal party machinery can go on at top speed; that the momentum gained by the successful Presidential campaign of 1936 can be maintained and that the party can continue to function as a cohesive unit through which millions of voters may speak.

Politics Is Business

It appears that Mr. Morgan will not succeed in getting anything like $10,000,000 together but it is very significant that he is thinking in terms so large as those mentioned in his announcement. It means simply that the present control of the New Deal party is determined to carry out to the nth degree the theory of its chairman, James A. Farley, only recently reappointed as postmaster general of the United States.

Mr. Farley plays politics in exactly the same manner that he would engage in a business venture. He takes chances when the stakes are high, he knows his men, his workers, and moreover, he knows how to get the best results out of the material he has. His operations are not unlike the functions of a sales manager of a great concern—he sells what he has to the voters and if any salesman fails to function, Mr. Farley looks for replacements.

We might illustrate the Farley methods further by reviewing some of the methods he employed in the last four years. For, when it comes to raising money, the Democratic national committee, under Chairman Farley, is both businesslike and versatile. It will be recalled how whenever the pretext arose, the Democratic national committee sponsored such things as dinners to which the faithful partisans were asked to buy tickets, usually high priced tickets, for an ordinary banquet. It will be recalled also how elaborate programs of the Democratic national convention were sold by the hundreds of thousands; how those programs were loaded to the gunwales with advertising of concerns that could not well refuse to buy advertising space; how victory dinners were given, and how finally the inaugural ceremony when Mr. Roosevelt took office was turned into a gigantic political rally that spread itself into every hotel in Washington that had space for great dinners and dances. These things are but a few which demonstrated the Farley versatility but they prove to my mind that if the Democratic national committee sets out to build up a real "war chest," it will accomplish exactly its objective.

The committee set-up is the most pretentious yet attempted by any political organization. It has a large and exceedingly efficient staff of trained men and women and it runs like the well oiled machine that it is.

It will cost money to keep that machine running at high speed, but Mr. Farley recognizes how elections are won. His philosophy is that the early bird catches the worm and so, although there is not another election for two years, the Democratic national committee is making ready for that election campaign right now. Unless the wise political students around Washington are badly mistaken, Mr. Farley will know pretty well when the congressional and senatorial candidates take to the stump early in 1938 just what the last two years of the Roosevelt administration will be like. It goes without saying that he will be prepared for them.

In contrast to the circumstances I have just related, it must be disheartening to witness the feeble, almost futile, efforts that are shown around Republican headquarters. Of course, old time politicians always say that a winning horse can be financed, never a loser. John D. M. Hamilton, the Republican national chairman, rode a losing horse. He came out of the race saddled with a gigantic deficit. Deficits for losing political parties are not as easily financed as United States Treasury deficits these days and so Mr. Hamilton is having his troubles in that direction as well as finding any enthusiasm among Republican party workers.

But that does not excuse the Republican national committee nor Mr. Hamilton. After all, it is to be remembered that approximately 18,000,000 voters cast their ballots for the Republican presidential nominee, Governor Landon of Kansas. That is not a small number, any way you examine it. It is a powerful segment of the American population but it is powerful only to the extent that its leadership develops enthusiasm for the fight and capacity to take it on the chin when victory goes the other way.

Among the New Dealers who can be classified as sound politicians, there is considerable regret at the failure of the Republican leadership to get going. President Roosevelt, himself, would like to see more opposition because it would make his task much easier and would prevent some of the unsound legislation from seeping through congress on account of a lack of opposition. Furthermore, if there were more Republican fight, there would be less chance of splits in the Democratic ranks in congress. Democratic leaders entertain a very real fear of this possibility.

From among the corps of political writers in Washington, I hear much criticism of the Republicans who are variously described as being "dead on their feet." They are certainly doing less than nothing. They have allowed the Democratic national committee to carry the ball on every play; they have offered no publicity by way of criticism of New Deal programs and they have developed no plans at all for reviving the Republican organization or restoring life to the party workers.

I am not saying that Mr. Hamilton is wholly to blame for this condition. He must accept responsibility, however, because he is the titular head of the organization. It would seem, therefore, that unless Mr. Hamilton awakens and shows some fight, there will be fewer Republicans in the house or senate after the 1938 elections than there are now. The national chairman of the Republicans, according to all discussion that I hear, sooner or later will have to start cooking or depart from the kitchen. Otherwise, the 18,000,000 voters which the Republican party has as a nucleus upon which to build will become so badly disorganized, so disheartened and discouraged, that it will be impossible to reunite them.

Part of the Republicans' difficulties are traceable directly to Capitol Hill. I simply cannot understand why Senator McNary of Oregon, continues to serve as Republican leader in the senate when, in the opinion of most observers, he has failed to justify his title in any way. It will be recalled that he did nothing in behalf of Governor Landon's candidacy against Mr. Roosevelt. Nor has he shown either the capacity or the desire to carry on as an opposition leader should carry on since the new congress convened.

Again, this is not the fault of Chairman Hamilton. Frankly, I think it is the fault of the few Republicans in the senate. If they had any fight in them, or any faith in their party label, they would insist upon a militant leadership on their side of the senate chamber, small as their number is.

There are much greater signs of fight among the house Republicans.

Signs of Fight

They are trying to make themselves heard, but the preponderance of Democratic strength in the house coupled with the gag rules which have been applied without stint or limit by the Democratic majority, precludes Republican leader Snell and his associates from doing very much for their party in the house. Where senators have the privilege of unlimited debate, House members are allotted time and lately the time allotted to the Republicans has been infinitesimal. That, of course, is one of the spoils of victory and the Democrats cannot be blamed for asserting their power.

But the point of it all is that while Democratic Chairman Farley has his team on its toes, full of fight, ready to go, Chairman Hamilton has not even been vocal personally, much less has he been able to stir up fight among his associates. It is a situation from which most anything may emerge. Mr. Hamilton sought and was given a vote of confidence by his own national committee shortly after the election. He cannot say now that his hands are tied insofar as the authority of leadership is concerned. So, it is made to appear that unless the present leaders of the Republicans really enter the arena, unless they show their ability to carry the fight to the enemy, it seems rather likely that new leaders will come from the ranks of the Republicans and the present group will become has-beens.

Father of the County Fair

IF YOU remember pleasantly that high spot in the days of your youth—"going to the county fair"—you should remember gratefully the name of Elkanah Watson. For he was the "father" of this typically-American institution and he is all the more worthy of honor because he labored in the face of difficulty and prejudice to bring it into being.

Watson was born in Massachusetts in 1758 and his natural Yankee shrewdness was enlivened by travel and adventure. Finally he settled down on a farm near Pittsfield, Mass. But he could not be content there and, as he said, "to fill up the void in an active mind led me first to conceive the idea of an agricultural society on a plan different from all others."

So in 1807 he secured the first pair of Merino sheep ever brought to his state and exhibited them under a great elm in the public square in Pittsfield. They attracted so much attention that he decided it would be a good thing to invite other owners to show their livestock. But he soon discovered that this wasn't so easy for the farmers were afraid to take part in such an exhibition lest they be laughed at.

However, after three years he got 26 of them to sign an "appeal" for a cattle show and this was such a success that an agricultural society was formed with Watson as president. The next year he began the fair with a parade and closed it with "a pastoral ball." Also prizes to the amount of $70 were offered. By the next year the premiums had risen to $208 and the fair was so popular with the men that he decided the next thing to do was to make it "respectable" by getting the indorsement of the clergy and the women.

But that was more difficult for the clergy regarded such things as "frivolous" and women's place was still very much in the home—not in the public eye. But with the aid of his wife he finally prevailed upon them to exhibit their weaving and sewing and be present when the awards were made. When they did that, the success of the fair was assured and for the next 12 years Watson labored to extend the idea into other states. By 1819 he had induced the legislature of New York to pass an annual appropriation of $10,000 to aid new societies in staging fairs and from that time on the county fair became an established American institution.

"The Spirit of '76"

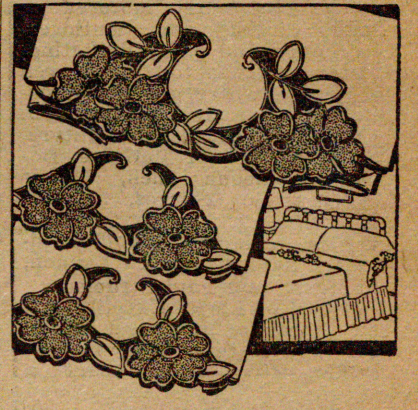

IT STARTED out as a humorous sketch and it ended up as one of the most famous of all American paintings. That is the story of the patriotic picture, "The Spirit of '76." The story of the painter is equally interesting.

Archibald Willard, while serving as a soldier in the Union army, often amused himself by making sketches of army life to send back home. After the war he painted a huge panorama of war scenes which he began exhibiting. But people wanted to forget about the war and his venture was a failure. So he went back to his home in Wellington, Ohio, and got a job with a wagonmaker, painting decorations on the wagons and occasionally doing the same work on the gaudy circus chariots of that period.

Willard also continued making sketches and one came to the attention of James F. Ryder, a Cleveland photographer and art dealer. He encouraged Willard, made chromos from several of his pictures and from their sale Willard was able to study art in New York.

In 1876, the year of the Philadelphia Centennial, Ryder suggested that Willard draw a picture appropriate to the celebration. So the artist set to work on a humorous picture showing three rural musicians at a Fourth of July celebration and depicting the two drummers as having imbibed too freely in honor of the occasion.

Then his father, who was the original of the middle figure, the tall drummer, fell ill and it was apparent that he would not live long. Willard reproached himself for having his father a figure in a comic picture of that character and the idea of "The Spirit of '76" was born in his mind. He worked furiously in the daytime to complete the picture and at night sat by the side of his father. But the elder Willard did not live to see the finished product nor to learn how he was to be immortalized as the white-haired patriot in his son's great picture. Ryder made reproductions which were sold at the centennial in Philadelphia and they attracted so much attention that officials of the exposition sent for the original. During the time it was on exhibition there were always crowds gathered in front of it. Since that time reproductions of it have been sold by the hundreds of thousands. Willard painted many other pictures before his death in 1918 but none of them ever became so famous as "The Spirit of '76."

THE OTHER WOMAN LIVES

IT may seem unreasonable, but I most men cannot understand why a woman who is usually happy and loving should have recurring periods when her whole character seems changed. He cannot appreciate the distress, the discomfort that all women must endure. He does not know what it is to do housework with an aching back and failing energy. THE FARMER MAKES FRIENDS WITH BILLY MINK.

THE farmer under whose woodpile Billy Mink was living did a lot of thinking after he guessed that it was Billy Mink that had driven all the rats out of his barn into his house. "If I could get that little brown rascal over here to the house," thought the farmer, "I would soon be rid of those pesky rats. But how am I going to do it? If he doesn't know that those rats are over here he certainly will not venture any nearer to the house than that woodpile. And if he cannot get into the henhouse to steal my chickens he won't stay around here very long because he will have little to eat. The thing for me to do is to see that he has plenty to eat and learns where it comes from."

So the very first thing the farmer did the next morning was to put some scraps of fresh meat just outside the woodpile. It didn't take Billy Mink long to find them. Of course the farmer was out of sight. He was in the barn peeping through a crack. He saw Billy come out from under the wood and sniff at the pieces of meat. It was clear that Billy was suspicious. He went all around those scraps of meat and the farmer could tell by the way he moved that Billy suspected a trap.

But Billy found no trap. Of course not, because there was no trap. At last he ventured to seize one of those scraps of meat and darted back into the woodpile with it. A few minutes later he was out again just as cautious as before. So, one by one, he took the scraps of meat under the woodpile. The farmer smiled as he saw the last scrap disappear. He knew that Billy had enough for a good meal, and that with a stomach well filled he would probably take a nap.

This is just what Billy did. Before he fell asleep he kept wondering about those scraps of meat and how they happened to be so handy. "It's funny," thought Billy, "how that meat happened to be right there. I wonder if that farmer could have dropped it. If he did, I hope he'll do it again." With this, Billy went to sleep.

Just at dusk Billy awoke. He was hungry again. He began to think of those hens over in the henhouse. Then he remembered the trap he had found over there and decided he would keep away from the henhouse. He decided that he would go over to the barn to see if any of those rats had returned. And then all of a sudden he remembered that easy breakfast he had had that morning.

Instantly Billy popped his head

He didn't really expect to find any more scraps of meat, and you can guess just how surprised and pleased he was when he found that there were more scraps just where he had found his breakfast that morning. THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

The Thumb of Little Affection

THERE are, of course, some men and women who are seemingly incapable of manifesting warmth in their affections. In fact, such persons seem singularly devoid of ability to give or attract love. Luckily, they are few and far between, but you may be called upon to analyze hands in which this deficiency must be included in your delineation of character.

The Thumb of Little Affection

The thumb which indicates this is usually inclined toward length rather than shortness. The first, or nail, joint is invariably stubbornly rigid under backward pressure. And the first and second joints are straight and of even lengths. Often the knuckle which separates them is unduly prominent and knotty. All of which is sure sign of the possessor's strength of will and coldly analytical control.

The third, or palm, joint is straight and often quite bony when viewed from the back. The outstanding mark, however, which enables one to place this type of thumb unhesitatingly in the category of the "loveless," is the flatness of the underside or palm portion of the third joint. This is sure to be notable by its absence of roundness or contour, and may, in fact, be depressed or "cupped." You may place the owner of the hand where this is found as one to whom love and warmth of response through the affections are a closed book.

Simplicity That Intrigues

THIS is the problem: Sister wants to entertain the Girl Scouts, it's Jule's turn to have the Bid-or-Bi club and Rose insists she can't put off the Laft-a-Lots a minute longer. And each of them has just finished a new dress and is anxious to wear it for the occasion.

Sister's Choice.

Sister's bit of intrigue is, as you can see, a dress worth wanting to show off (Pattern 1223). It is made of velveteen this time and a little later on she's going to blossom out in a bright crisp gingham version for school. The smart collar, flattering flared skirt and puff sleeves are good reasons for this frock's popularity. It comes in sizes 6 to 14 years. Size 8 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material.

Jule's Entertaining Dress.

Jule knows a neat trick when she sees one whether on the table or in a page of fashions, and she didn't miscue in choosing Pattern 1998. She'll wear this snappy shirt frock when she's "it" to entertain and because she chose broadcloth it will look more trim and lovely after each washing. The diagram shows why a few hours is all that's needed to sew this grand number. You may have it in sizes 34 to 46. Size 36 requires 4½ yards of 35 inch material. With long sleeves 4½ yards.

KNOW THYSELF

WHY IS IT SO DIFFICULT FOR SOME PEOPLE TO MAKE UP THEIR MINDS?

PSYCHOLOGISTS have come to the conclusion that difficulty in making up one's mind is usually due to lack of self-confidence. This lack may not be known to the person himself, and may be entirely subconscious, but it functions to produce indecision whenever there are several choices and one thing must be selected from the rest. He wants some advice, or wants to show it to someone else before he makes up his mind. He has an inner feeling that he is not intelligent enough, experienced enough, or does not have enough good taste, or something else, to make the choice alone. Such people have to be told by others what they should do; then they feel satisfied—especially if the other person advises the choice they themselves really liked best.

MRS. SOPHIA KOEHLER
PASSES AWAY MONDAY
 Mrs. Sophia Koehler, aged 80 years, died at 9:55 a. m. Monday in her home on Cicero avenue near 183rd street. She was the wife of John Koehler and had lived in the community for many years.

Although she had been ill for the past week her death came as a shock to her many friends.

James English has received word from his relatives in Stephensport, Kentucky, that they are safe and well altho the flood waters of the Ohio river covered their farm. The American Legion Auxiliary wishes to thank the community for clothing already donated for flood territory and announces clean, warm bedding can be used. Pillows, blankets and so forth. All clothing should be mended, cleaned and buttons sewed on, also tagged with size for immediate use. The reason; there are no needles, thread nor buttons where flood sufferers are. All shoes should contain shoe laces. High heels are not as acceptable because these people are enduring hardships and need comforts. Small and large sizes are needed but large preferred as feet can fit in shoes two sizes large better than two sizes small.

All articles for flood territory should be left at Vogt's Department store. Mrs. Francis Ceithamel is chairman of the Auxiliary's Welfare Work for Flood Relief.

"Old Khabardar"
 The nickname "Old Khabardar" was popularly applied to Gen. Sir Colin Campbell, who relieved Lucknow, India, in 1857. The word means "take care," and referred to Sir Collin's caution to his subordinates to "be careful and not lose an unnecessary man." His demonstrated personal bravery and brilliant success made the term one of affection.

MOKENA
 Wait Long for Cremation
 It is not unusual for a Dutch family to sell all its property to defray the cost of cremation of the father, to meet the heavy cost in their country. A poor family will scrimp and save for years to provide funds for the ceremonial cremation of a member. Meanwhile, a corpse often reposes in a village graveyard for years waiting the accumulation of the necessary funds. Expense of cremation is sometimes reduced to a minimum by co-operative or mass cremations, at which 50 or 100 bodies are burned in one grand ceremony, and the expense divided pro rata.
